

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A receiving layer is formed from a thermosetting resin precursor. An interconnecting layer is formed on the receiving layer from a dispersion liquid containing conductive particles. Heat is applied to the receiving layer and the interconnecting layer to cure the thermosetting resin precursor and to bond the conductive particles together.